My dear Mrs. Manley:

We wish to acknowledge receipt of your letter dated June 5 wherein you advise you neglected to secure a notation to the effect that one package containing jackets shipped to you by us was received in poor condition.

Do you think you could get the delivery company to give you the necessary receipt to enable us to make claim at this time. Perhaps if you make out an affidavit they will be willing to do so. Suppose you get in touch with them and no doubt it would be best to do so by letter, asking for this.

If you cannot get results, we will see what can be worked out from here. We doubt very much whether we could accomplish anything, as this should be taken care of locally.

Very truly yours,
